CropManage is a free online decision-support tool for water and nutrient management of vegetables, berries, agronomic, and tree crops. Based on research and field studies conducted by the University of California Cooperative Extension, CropManage provides real-time recommendations for efficient and timely irrigation and fertilization applications while maintaining or improving overall yield. Learn more at: help.cropmanage.ucanr.edu.

At this free workshop, we will provide hands-on training so that you can learn to use the newest version of CropManage. Crops currently supported include many vegetables (carrots, cabbage, celery, broccoli, lettuce, tomato, spinach, etc.), berry crops (raspberry and strawberry), tree crops (almond, walnut, pistachio, prunes, and pear), and agronomic crops (alfalfa and corn). CropManage is also available in Spanish.

Who should participate? Growers, farm managers, other farm staff, crop advisors, consultants, and technical service providers are welcome. The workshop is for both new and current CropManage users.

What to bring? This is a participatory workshop.

- Please bring a tablet or laptop so that you can follow along and participate in the exercises.
- Each participant will need a user account for CropManage.
- Please set up a free user account at <https://cropmanage.ucanr.edu/> before the workshop. Please arrive early to set up your laptop or tablet computer on the wifi and get logged on to CropManage.

Seats are limited to the first 35 registrants.
